Relationships and Perception

DESCRIPTION: You are invited to participate in a research study on relationships and perception. The purpose of the research is to understand the role of social bonds in our perception of the world around us. You will be asked some questions regarding a relationship partner, after which you will complete a visual processing task. Finally, you will answer some demographic questions.

TIME INVOLVEMENT: Your participation will take approximately 5-8 minutes.

RISKS AND BENEFITS: There are no personal risks nor benefits associated with completing this study.

PAYMENTS: You will receive $1 as payment for your participation.

PARTICIPANT'S RIGHTS: By answering the following questions, you are participating in a study being performed by cognitive scientists in the Stanford Department of Psychology. If you have questions about this research, please contact us at stanfordpsych251@gmail.com. You must be at least 18 years old to participate. Your participation in this research is voluntary. You may decline to answer any or all of the following questions. You may decline further participation, at any time, without adverse consequences.

Your anonymity is assured; the researchers who have requested your participation will not receive any personal information about you. The results of this research study may be presented at scientific or professional meetings or published in scientific journals. Your individual privacy will be maintained in all published and written data resulting from the study. In accordance with scientific norms, the data from this study may be used or shared with other researchers for future research (after removing personally identifying information) without additional consent from you.

CONTACT INFORMATION:

Questions: If you have any questions, concerns or complaints about this research, its procedures, risks and benefits, contact our research team at stanfordpsych251@gmail.com.

Independent Contact: If you are not satisfied with how this study is being conducted, or if you have any concerns, complaints, or general questions about the research or your rights as a participant, please contact the Stanford Institutional Review Board (IRB) to speak to someone independent of the research team at (650)-723-2480 or toll free at 1-866-680-2906, or email at irbnnonmed@stanford.edu. You can also write to the Stanford IRB, Stanford University, 1705 El Camino Real, Palo Alto, CA 94306.

Perception Task

In the next section, you will see a set of figures.

For each of the figures you are given, we want you to give your first and most immediate impression as to which of the two comparison figures looks more like the target figure.

There are no right or wrong answers. Just select your first and most immediate impression.

Below is an example.

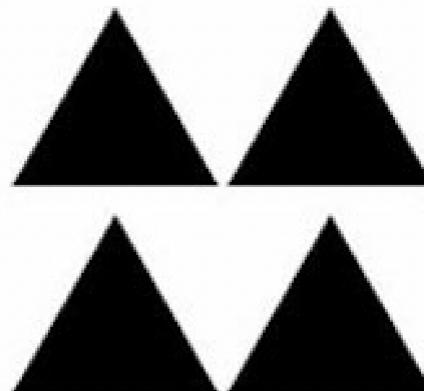

For your convenience, on this task, questions will auto-advance once you select one of the comparison figures.

There will be 16 rounds in total.

Attention Check

As with all online data collection, there is a risk that some respondents are 'bots'. To ensure the integrity of our data, we want to know which responses are from real people like you! For that reason, we have included this question as a quality control check. Please select which of the following answer choices is a fruit:

- Pork
- Eggs
- Bread
- Beans
- Apple
- Milk

Debrief

Thank you for participating in this research study! We really appreciate you taking the time to help in our scientific research.

What was this study about?

In this study, we want to test how perceptions of relationships impact the breadth of our cognitive perspective. You may have been asked to write about two (2) or ten (10) things your relationship partner had done for you in the past week. We are interested in whether this task impacts the types of choices you made on the visual shape task. Please note, there were no 'right' or 'wrong' answers on that task!

Because we are still under active data collection, it is essential that you refrain from discussing the purpose of this study with other people on the platform who may participate in the future. This is because knowing what a study is about can subconsciously change how people respond to an experiment, which risks the integrity of our scientific findings. Thank you for not sharing this debriefing information with other potential participants.

Please make sure you proceed to the following page to get credit for your participation! After being debriefed about the study goals, you will be redirected back to Prolific.
